Destocking prior to GST 2.0 may impact FMCG sales in Q2

SHARLEEN D'SOUZA
Mumbai, 29 September

Fast-moving consumer goods (FMCG) companies are expected to see pressures on their performance, especially on the top line, in the July-September quarter, as buying from distributors took a hit as distributors slowed down their purchases in anticipation of new stock with updated maximum retail prices (MRP). The government had announced changes to the goods and services tax (GST) on many categories, which led to a cut in MRP from September 22.

Facing the heat

- Secondary sales witnessing a slowdown as the channel is focused on destocking
- In South India, distributors are facing the impact of the growing dominance of quick commerce
- HUL says it expects consolidated business growth to be near flat to low single digit for the July-September quarter

The government had reduced GST rates on items ranging from food products to shampoos and soaps.

Distributors from the Central, Western, and Eastern regions have seen muted growth. While distributors typically pick up stock ahead of the festival season, as secondary sales (sales from distributors to retailers) also see an uptick, this time they are witnessing some weakness.

A distributor from the Western region said that while primary sales (sales from companies to distributors) have picked up since September 22, the same recovery has not been seen from retailers.

"The distributor in the West explained: 'The quarter (July-August-September) has not looked great, and sales have seen muted growth as buying had slowed down and also halted for around four to five days ahead of the implementation of the new GST rates. But even with the new rates kicking in, there is some weakness in buying from retailers.'

Another distributor from the East reported the same trend in the region and added that smaller retailers and wholesalers are stuck with old stocks, which is causing them to focus on liquidating those stocks before making new purchases at updated prices.

"In Central India, a distributor said that while there is demand, companies have been pressuring them since September 22 to increase their stock quantities. He added that competitive intensity has increased in the region as companies aim to gain market share across categories."

"While consumption is growing, buying was not really impacted ahead of the implementation of GST, but we have to pick up much higher quantities of stock now after the implementation," the distributor said. In the South, while the story remains the same, the emergence of quick commerce (qcom) has also cramped sales, as the transition to the new rates has been quicker.

A distributor explained: "Business has been severely impacted due to a huge shift in sales happening in qcom, and stocks are lying at retail outlets."

Hindustan Unilever said in an exchange filing last week: "The latest GST reforms are a positive step by the government to drive consumption. While this measure supports long-term consumption, we have observed a transitional impact in the form of disruptions at distributor and retailer across channels, as they attempt to clear existing inventories at old prices. The disruption has resulted in the postponement of ordering in anticipation of receiving new stocks with updated prices and lower orders across the overall portfolio as consumers delayed their pantry buying."

It added: "This has led to short-term impact on sales in September. Given our existing pipeline inventory in the channels, we expect this impact to continue into October as well."

GVK scion bets big on AI-powered call assistant

The start-up Equal eyes one million daily active users on the platform by mid-2026

AASHISH ARYAN
New Delhi, September 29

Hyderabad-based GVK Group scion Keshav Reddy is betting big on an artificial intelligence (AI)-powered future with his start-up Equal, which aims to touch one million daily active users (DAU) by mid-2026 on its new call assistant platform Equal AI.

The service will debut on Thursday with a rollout for 10,000 Android users across Delhi and the National Capital Region (NCR), Reddy told Business Standard.

The AI-powered call assistant will go a step further than just identifying unknown calls. It will also pick up the call on behalf of the users, respond if needed, and then inform the user if they should take the call. The problem Equal AI aims to solve is to act as an assistant to the user, especially in the age of spam and scam calls, as well as the increasing prevalence of online delivery, Reddy said.

While receiving calls on the user's behalf, the AI assistant also records a live transcript of the ongoing call and displays it to the user in case they wish to take over the conversation, he said.

"And if the user actually wants to take over the call, or if the AI is not able to get the context of the conversation, the user takes over and the AI assistant drops off," Reddy said.

The start-up, which has roughly 10 employees based in Hyderabad, began in the business-to-business vertical, where the company now processes more than a billion transactions for about 90 million people across the banking, financial services, and insurance domains, as well as personal finance management, among others.

Founded in 2022, the start-up has Rajeev Ranjan, the former director of engineering at Swiggy, and Krishna Prasad as its cofounders.

Backed by investors like Prosus, Blume, DST Global Partners, Tomales Bay Capital, Valiant Capital, Binny Bansal, Karan Adani, Kunal Shah, Kunal Bahl, Nikhil Kamath and Parth Jindal, Equal AI is positioning itself as the only AI-backed call assistant that can listen to conversations and talk on behalf of the user, Reddy said.

"Our entire stake is natively AI-built. We have 15 mini-agents running in every call to figure out the next action to be taken, be it the generation of a summary of the call or taking action, such as if the conversation is in a language that the AI does not understand," he said.

KESHAV REDDY, GVK GROUP SCION, SAID THAT THE SERVICE WILL DEBUT ON THURSDAY WITH A ROLLOUT FOR 10,000 ANDROID USERS ACROSS DELHI AND THE NCR

X to challenge K'taka HC order upholding Sahyog portal validity

AASHISH ARYAN
New Delhi, 29 September

Elon Musk-owned X on Monday said it would challenge the Karnataka High Court's decision upholding the central government's right to take down online content through the Ministry of Home Affairs' Sahyog Portal.

In a post on X, the Global Government Affairs team of the social media platform said that the Sahyog portal enables the officers to order content removal based solely on allegations of "illegality," without judicial review or due process for the speakers, and threatens platforms with criminal liability for non-compliance.

Last week, the Karnataka High Court ruled that the Centre's Sahyog portal was essential for the government to maintain law and order.

"The Sahyog Portal stands as a beacon of cooperation between the citizen and the intermediary, a mechanism through which the state endeavours to combat the growing menace of cybercrime," Justice A. Nagappasanna had said in his judgment.

"No social media platform can treat the Indian marketplace as a mere play ground. In light of the observations, the content of social media needs to be regulated," the court had noted in its judgment.

The Global Government Affairs team said that while it would respect the judgment and comply with laws, the ruling failed to address "the core constitutional issues" that had been raised by X.

Zoho IPO unlikely soon, hints Vembu; focus on R&D initiatives

SHINE JACOB
Chennai, 29 September

The success of Arattai, a messaging app developed by Zoho Corporation, indicates the company will not go for an initial public offering (IPO) in the near future.

In the past three days, Arattai's traffic zoomed 100-fold, with sign-ups rising from 3,500 to 350,000 per day.

"We understand the push for Zoho to go public. But let me state the reality: Arattai would very likely not have been built by a public company that faces quarter-to-quarter financial pressure." Zoho Founder Sridhar Vembu posted on X, calling it a "hopelessly foolish" project, as even his employees had expressed concerns regarding traction. "We built it because we felt we needed that kind of engineering capability in Bharat. Imagine saying all that to Wall Street or Dalal Street" Vembu emphasised.

Sridhar Vembu, founder, Zoho

Zoho has several other research and development projects planned for the future, including complex data bases, operating system security, hardware chip design, robotics, and AI among others. "In addition, we have invested in many R&D-intensive companies that we know won't make money soon," he pointed out.

Q2 RESULTS PREVIEW

While consumption is growing, buying was not really impacted ahead of the implementation of GST, but we have to pick up much higher quantities of stock now after the implementation," the distributor said. In the South, while the story remains the same, the emergence of quick commerce (qcom) has also cramped sales, as the transition to the new rates has been quicker.
